INDICTMENT

The Grand Jury charges that:

GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

At all times relevant to this Indictment:

1. The Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act was a federal law enacted in March 2020 to provide financial assistance to Americans suffering economic harm from the COVID-19 pandemic. One source of relief provided through the CARES Act was the authorization of forgivable loans to businesses for job retention and certain other expenses, through a program called the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP).

2. To obtain a PPP loan, a qualifying business submitted a PPP loan application, which was signed by an authorized representative of the business. The PPP loan application requires the business (through its authorized representative) to acknowledge the program rules and make certain affirmative certifications to be eligible to obtain the PPP loan. In the PPP loan application (Small Business Administration (“SBA”) Form 2483), the small business (through its authorized representative) was required to provide, among other things, its: (a) average monthly payroll expenses; (b) net profit; and/or (c) number of employees. These figures were used to calculate the amount of money the small business was eligible to receive under the PPP. In addition, businesses applying for a PPP loan were required to provide documentation confirming their payroll expenses. For sole proprietors, this documentation included their 2019 IRS Form 1040 Schedule C, line 31 net profit.

3. The CARES Act required PPP loan applications to be processed by a participating lender. If a PPP loan application was approved, the participating lender would fund the PPP loan using its own monies, which were guaranteed by the Small Business Administration (SBA). Data from the application, including information about the borrower, the total amount of the loan, and the listed number of employees, were transmitted by the lender to the SBA to process the loan.

4. SBA Loan Processor 1 and SBA Loan Processor 2 (the "SBA Loan Processors") were financial-technology companies based in California.

5. The SBA Loan Processors participated in the PPP by, among other things, acting as a service provider for small businesses and certain lenders. Small businesses seeking a PPP loan could apply through the SBA Loan Processors, which would review the PPP loan applications. If a PPP loan application received was approved for funding, a partner financial institution disbursed the loan funds to the applicant.

6. The partner financial institutions for the SBA Loan Processors were Financial Institution 1 and Financial Institution 2, both of which were federally insured banks headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah.

7. Applicant 1 was a limited liability company in the assisted living industry registered in the State of Florida.

8. Applicant 2 was a limited liability company in the real estate industry registered in the Commonwealth of Virginia.

9. Applicant 3 was a limited liability company in the health care industry registered in the State of Florida.

10. Defendant VALESKY BAROSY, a resident of Broward County, Florida, was the president of VBarosySolutions Inc. (VBS), a corporation registered in the State of Florida.

11. VALESKY BAROSY and VBS maintained bank accounts at Bank 1 in Broward County, Florida. Bank 1 was a federally insured financial institution headquartered in New York City, New York.
